

CompuVision

The Challenge

The goal was to find a technician on short notice that would move their environment to a solution that would decrease infrastructure costs, simplify the management and minimize total downtime. Along with these items, it was also very important that the technician had flexible scheduling and end-user support options.

The Solution

CompuVision worked closely with the LANTECH team to ensure that the change was made with minimal disturbance and advised a solution that filled the needs of their customer. As a single point of contact, LANTECH removes the need to source technical resources, it provides for a single payment solution, eliminates the need for 1099 compliance, and decreases your organizations resource needs to manage and support resources.

The Result

Our vast network of technical resources are available nationwide, from remote locations to large metropolitan areas, we have you covered. We get the right staff in the right place without the need for any intervention on the part of your organization.

“ We needed a technical resource in a remote location on short notice, the team was able to quickly fill the roll with a highly skilled technician.
